This workbook has been designed to support teaching and learning. It is not, of course, envisaged that students would have to complete every question.

While you are reading and reflecting on the novel,
you can also work towards achieving the following statement

WORKING WITH OTHERS

I can work with others and make a positive contribution to group activities by

- 1) Waiting my turn
- 2) Listening quietly when people are speaking
- 3) Looking at the person who is speaking
- 4) Agreeing goals with others in the group
- 5) Respecting the rights of others to have opinions different from mine
- 6) Being positive about other people's work
- 7) Asking people to explain what they said if I don't understand
- 8) Adding more information to what someone else has already said
- 9) Helping to summarise our ideas and information
- 10) Helping to resolve any conflicts
- 11) Doing my share of the work on time
- 12) Taking my turn to carry out different roles agreed by the group – reporter/note-taker/summariser/time-keeper/team leader etc
- 13) Helping other group members with their work if I am finished early
- 14) Helping to keep the group on task
- 15) Helping others to feel included

Using a placemat like the one below discuss the question: What does it mean to belong?

Your teacher may give you a placemat or ask each group to draw one.

First, think about it quietly and write what you think in your own section. In turn, everyone shares what they have written with others in the group. Write down the points agreed by the group in the centre of the placemat. Each group can then report what they have written to the class.

Read the blurb on the cover of the novel. Does it make you want to read the book?
Why?

Think about your reader identity:

- What sort of books do you like to read?
- What are you reading now?
- Have your tastes in reading changed as you have got older?
- Do you like to talk about books?
